VANCOUVER, Nov. 11.—By unanimous judgment of five court of appeal judges the conviction of Abraham Klein by Magistrate H. C. Edmonds, for theft of a set of harness, was quashed. Klein had been fined $100 in police court and was sentenced to one day's imprisonment.

The court of appeal, sustaining the argument of appellant's counsel, concluded that Klein had not been actuated by a guilty mind, which is essential in all criminal prosecutions.

Russian Peasant Says Soviet Worse Than Death

MOSCOW, Nov. 11.—Sentence of death was returned today against Zosin Kobylin, a wealthy peasant, convicted of murdering four Communists in 1918 at Archangel. Kobylin, at the time of the alleged crime, commanded a small detachment of soldiers who were brigaded with the Allied forces at Archangel. It was charged that he dragged his victims to a hole in the ice on the White Sea and thrust them into the water after bayoneting them. In court he proclaimed his enmity to the Soviet regime, and declared it meant nothing to him to give his life for his principles.

He (admirably): You are a girl after my own heart. She: Thank you. But I hope you are not a man after mine, because it's otherwise engaged.

SERVICE HELD FOR ARMISTICE

Impressive Ceremony Took Place at Base of War Memorial in Parliament Square Yesterday Forenoon

REV. A. DE B. OWEN MAKES APPEAL FOR HIGH IDEALS

In His Address He Calls for Lives to Be Shaped in Keeping With the Sacrifice Made by Those Who Served in War

With a simplicity in keeping with the dual character of the ceremony, the Armistice proceedings at the base of the War Memorial in Parliament Square yesterday was impressive. A representative assemblage gathered at the point and commemorated the restoration of peace eight years ago, at the same time paying a tribute of respect to those who had paid the supreme sacrifice in the prosecution of the war.

The ceremonies were brief, and were carried out under the charge of Rev. A. de B. Owen, while among those who gathered about the monument and took part in the exercises were His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor, Premier Oliver, and Lt. General Sir Percy H. N. Lake, K.C.B., K.C.M.G., president of the Canadian Legion of the B.E.S.L.

On the signal that 11 o'clock had been reached the standard bearers of the I.O.D.E., who had been assigned a place in front of the gathering, lowered their flags while the period of silence in memory of those who lost their lives was observed. An appropriate address by Mr. Owen was followed by a short prayer. The placing of floral tributes at the base of the monument was succeeded by the sounding of "Last Post." The singing of "God Save the King" concluded the ceremonies.

Dates Back to Mutiny Among the wealth of tributes that were placed about the monument from various bodies was one by the British Campaigners, which was borne to its place by Mr. George Millett, a veteran of the Indian Mutiny Campaign. The Naval Veterans, in addition to placing a wreath on the memorial statue, placed one also on the monument to Queen Victoria near by. In his address Rev. Mr. Owen recalled the early days of the war, and said he felt that it was proper that they should recall the noble qualities shown by those who absolutely without thought of themselves had given their services at the opening of the war for the service of their country and for those who remained behind. Little did they who went with the first contingent dream of what they would be called upon to endure. But they went. They went prepared to lay down that which was dear to them as it was to everyone—their lives. In many cases the supreme sacrifice was paid. What heart aches had followed.

What a tribute we owe to those who felt the call of duty and obeyed that call," said the speaker. Not only said he, do we remember those who laid down their lives in that service, but they also remembered those who came back crippled and unfitted for the struggle of life.

Mr. Owen said that he had met those who came back who had told him of the angels of Mons, and who believed that the spirits of those who had gone before had exercised a guardian care over them.

"Are our loved ones looking down on us today?" asked the speaker.

Following up this idea, he said that he wanted to bring home to them all the immense sacrifice that these men had made. Are these men as they look down upon us today satisfied with the events of today, and are those for whom the sacrifice was made living the lives that they should live?" he asked.

In their everyday actions, the speaker asked, that all should acquit themselves in a way which they felt would be worthy of the men who had been taken away in answer to the impulse of duty and of love which had actuated them. These men enjoyed life just as others did, but they sacrificed it in answer to a higher duty. He hoped they would have no need to feel disappointed in the actions of the present age. He called upon them to make their lives a living witness that they were not forgetting what had been done in their behalf by the heroes whose memory they were commemorating.

The speaker expressed the hope that each one should make the words that were addressing a personal message, a call for unselfishness and a call for the performance of the highest duty to the Empire to which they were a part.

SEWER AGREEMENT IN FINAL STAGE

ALL PARTIES IN HARMONY AND CLAUSE SEVEN REDRAFTED TO SUIT SAANICH

Water Committee Discusses Water Dispute and Logging Agreement for Watershed Timber

The three-party sewer agreement, the Goldstream watershed logging agreement and the Oak Bay-Victoria water dispute, were matters dealt with by the water committee at yesterday afternoon's meeting at the City Hall. Another meeting of this committee will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

All parties are in harmony over the sewer agreement, which, when signed, will permit residents of Saanich to connect with the northwest trunk main, it was announced at the conclusion of the meeting yesterday afternoon. Clause seven of the agreement has been so drafted that the Saanich Municipality will in no way be binding itself to admit debt with regard to the sewer connection.

An open discussion was held on the Oak Bay water dispute, while the logging agreement offered the city for the timber on its Goldstream watershed was also discussed. It is expected that negotiations may be carried out shortly with the lumber company.

CONSERVATIVES ARE NAMING DELEGATES

Activity Shown in Preparing for Convention—Wards One and Five Meet Tonight

The election of delegates to attend the Kamloops convention of the Liberal-Conservative party on November 23 is now in full swing, and the various associations who have not yet named their representatives will do this in the next few days.

Tonight, Wards One and Five in the city hold their meetings in the Campbell Building for the purpose of making a choice of the quotas of delegates to go to Kamloops.

There will also be a meeting at Deep Cove Hall this evening, at 8 o'clock, when the Liberal-Conservative Association of Northwest Saanich will make choice of its delegates. This meeting is to begin sharply on time.

On Monday evening next, there will be a joint meeting of the Langford, Colwood and Luxton Conservative Associations to make choice of a delegate to represent this section of Esquimalt riding at the convention. This meeting will be held in Colwood Hall commencing at 8 o'clock.

ELECTION COST WILL BE LOWER THIS YEAR

Staff Required With Number Sixty—All Ballot Papers to Be Placed in One Box

Cost for the forthcoming civic election to ratepayers will be some $400 less than last year, despite the fact that referendum will be taken on the city manager by-law, if recommendations that are to be made to the City Council by the committee specially appointed to investigate expenses is adopted. The committee comprises Alderman Marchant, chairman; Aldermen Woodward and Holmes.

In session yesterday afternoon the committee devised plans for receiving the vote at the coming election, which will not only simplify matters, but will also curtail expenses and reduce congestion to a minimum.

The plan is to have a separate ballot paper for Mayor, should a vote be needed; aldermen, school trustees, police commissioners and the referendum. Each ballot paper will be of a different color. These will be given to the voter who will take them to one polling booth, mark his ballots and then return them. They will then be placed in one ballot box and be segregated during the count.

Under this system the staff required will number about sixty, including returning officers, deputies and polling clerks. This would be about half the number required during the last election.

By giving a smaller list of voters to each group and providing more polling booths, the congestion that marked the election of last year will be done away with and voters will have more time in which to mark their ballots.

Nomination day will be December 2 in the civic election, with polling to take place between 9 a.m. and 7 p.m., on December 9. The place of polling will likely be the City Market Building, though details in that connection have yet to be arranged by the committee.

Two Men in Hospital Following Explosion

PRINCE RUPERT, Nov. 11.—Burns sustained in an explosion on board a fishing boat moored at the Government dock here this morning resulted in the removal of Ivor Martinson and Jack Mahoney to hospital, where it was said this afternoon that, while their injuries were painful, they would recover.

The explosion is believed to have occurred when one of the men, struck a match in the cabin during the absence of John Wieks, owner of the craft. The three had planned to leave today on a hunting trip. The blast blew out the bow of the vessel and her owner returned to the waterfront to find her burned practically to the water's edge.

Russia and Turkey to Talk Over Relations

MOSCOW, Nov. 11.—George Tchitcherin, Soviet Minister of Foreign Affairs, is proceeding to Odessa to meet Tewfik Ruzhdi Bey, the Turkish Foreign Minister, who will arrive there in a few days aboard a Turkish warship. M. Tchitcherin will discuss Russian and Turkish relations generally with Russia. It is believed he will also touch on a possible alliance between Turkey, Afghanistan, Persia and Soviet Russia as a sort of Asiatic League to offset League of Nations and the League of Nations. The Soviet Union already has treaties of neutrality and friendship with Turkey and Afghanistan, and has been striving for a long time to conclude a similar pact with Persia.

THE CIDER INDUSTRY

Premier Oliver has announced his determination of including cider made from British Columbia apples in the bill of fare at the Government's liquor vending stores. He is well intentioned in his desire which is to encourage the industry in the Okanagan and Kootenays by opening up a new market for the apple products, but the point still to be determined is will the people drink cider? It is notorious that fifty years ago draught cider could be obtained practically everywhere at village inns in the West of England, and it was always cheap. Now it is difficult to get and it is always dear, and probably the reason is that there is little or no demand for it. It may be contended that cider should be a popular drink but it is no longer so and it cannot be made so by the mere fact of being sold at Government liquor stores.

The first thing to discover is the quality of the cider which can be made in British Columbia. Then there is the question of the price at which it can be sold. In England the experience has been that cider is no longer in demand at any place where beer can be secured. The plea is being made there that licences should be granted, at a small charge, to persons selling no other alcoholic drink except cider. That would be the better experiment in British Columbia if the cider industry is to be encouraged. We are inclined to think that it will never become a popular drink if only sold at Government stores.

POLITICS IN BAVARIA

Of all the States of the German Republic Bavaria is regarded as that most inclined towards a resumption of a monarchical form of government. The Bavarians as a whole are not content with Republicanism and it is doubtful how far the discontent is being allayed with the process of time. About three-quarters of the population is composed of peasant-farmers and of these the great majority are Monarchists. On the other hand the merchants, and shopkeepers, have a strong leaning towards the Republic. The armed forces of the State—the Reichswehr and the Green Police—are impregnated with the Royalist spirit and the latter even go so far as to wear Royalist emblems. There are also various student and volunteer corps which are Monarchist in their convictions. Bavaria, too, has a union of rifle leagues all over the State headed by Prince Altona, who is cousin to Prince Rupprecht.

What keeps Bavaria from reverting to a monarchy is the impossibility of doing this without breaking away from the German "commonwealth." She cannot take this action in opposition to the rest of the Reich. What Bavaria is working for, or rather what her Royalists there see as a goal, is the restoration of the Monarchy throughout Germany with Prince Rupprecht as Emperor. It may be doubtful if this dream will ever be realized, because, since they engage in little if any propaganda, their influence will eventually wane. Bavaria although Royalist at heart is becoming to some extent indifferent. The people have grown tired of taking the lead in revolutionary politics. The lead must come now from some other part of Germany, but if it does come then Bavaria would probably change overnight from a Republican form of government to a Monarchy in a bloodless fashion.

ADVERTISING

The utterances of President Coolidge of the United States are listened with all the greater curiosity and interest because they are few and far between. He has the reputation for silence and for only speaking when he has something to say that he thinks worth while. It is an admirable quality which might be followed with advantage by all our public men. Recently President Coolidge took occasion to speak in Washington on the subject of advertising. By radio his speech reached 50,000,000 people and through the medium of the press it has reached at least as many more. It is well worth a permanent record, because even if it preaches a common place truth it is a truth that sometimes escapes attention. In the roll of most business losses the cause is to be found in failure to advertise. This is the lesson which President Coolidge seeks to impress in the following remarks:

It seems to me probable that of all our economic life the element on which we are inclined to place too low an estimate is advertising. Advertising creates and changes the foundation of all popular action, public sentiment, or public opinion. It is the most potent influence in adapting and changing the habits and modes of life, affecting what we eat, what we wear, and the work and play of the whole nation. Formerly it was an axiom that competition was the life of trade. Under the methods of the present day it would seem to be more appropriate to say that advertising is the life of trade.

Two examples of this influence have come to me in casual way. While I can not vouch for the details, I believe in their outline they are substantially correct. One relates to an American industry that had rather phenomenal growth and prosperity in the late eighties and early nineties, being the foundation of one or two large fortunes. In its development it had been a most generous advertiser. A time came when various concerns engaged in this line of manufacturing were merged and consolidated. There being no longer any keen competition, it was felt that it was now no longer necessary to explain to the public the value of this product or the superiority of one make over another. In order to save the large expense that had been made for that purpose, advertising was substantially abandoned. The inevitable result followed, which all well-informed trade quarters now know would follow.

But the value of advertising was now well understood twenty-five years ago. This concern soon became almost a complete failure. As I recall, it had to be reorganized, and the great losses. This line of trade was later revived under the direction and counsel of some of its old managers, and with the proper amount of publicity became a successful enterprise.

In former days goods were expected to sell themselves. Oftentimes they were carried about from door to door. Otherwise, they were displayed on the shelves and counters of the merchant. The public were supposed to know of these sources of supply and depend on themselves for their knowledge of what was to be sold. Modern business could neither have been created nor can it be maintained on any such system. It constantly requires publicity. It is not enough that goods are made; a demand for them must also be made. It is on this foundation of enlarging production through the demands created by advertising that very much of the success of the American industrial system rests.

MOUNT EVEREST

In a book he has published on "The Epic of Mount Everest" Sir Francis Younghusband, who was the first chairman of the Mount Everest Committee of the Royal Geographical Society, says that another and another expedition will be sent and, with the certainty of mathematics, man will prevail. He believes indeed that the mountain presents no insuperable obstacles. In dealing with the latest expeditions he tells of how twice in four consecutive days Odell climbed without the help of oxygen from the 23,000 ft. camp to about the 27,000 ft. level. He relates how heights of 28,000 ft. and 28,100 ft. were reached by Somervell and Norton and that Mallory and Irvine when last seen "going strong" were only some 800 ft. from the top of the mountain.

Sir Francis believes that Everest will be conquered without the use of oxygen, and indeed that the carriage of the oxygen apparatus would be an actual hindrance instead of a help. What is delaying another expedition is the attitude of the Tibetan Government. That difficulty may stand for years but Sir Francis believes that the spirit of man will not be satisfied in this particular until triumph is won. In this respect he says: "No, the attempt should not be abandoned. Knowledge is not everything in life. Science may be satisfied, but the soul is not. It was the spirit, not science, that embarked on this enterprise. And the spirit can never rest satisfied until it is completed." He believes that it is the mission of man to establish the supremacy of spirit over matter and that it is that mission which has led onwards and upwards in the case of Mount Everest.

Although Germany now has but a little army compared with the weapon which it used in the Great War the German people are intensely proud of their military machine. In commenting on it Berlin Tag says: "General von Seeckt is no Republican; true. Republicans are as rare in Germany as albinos, whilst on all sides one comes across out and out Monarchists. As for the generality of the people, so long as they get their allowance of bread and shows, they are utterly indifferent to the form of government. The proof that there is no exaggeration in this statement lies in the fact that the whole German nation, including the Socialists, regards von Seeckt with admiration, for having been able to forge out of our little army of 100,000 men a weapon which Frederick the Great himself would not have disdained."

The Mexican authorities are apprehending another revolution in that country and are choosing a course which they believe will forestall it. The Chamber of Deputies has passed a Bill to permit a President who has served one term to become candidate for office again after the lapse of at least one other presidential term. There is frankness in stating the reason for this measure. It is to pave the way for the election of General Obregon as President in 1928. Owing to President Calles' action towards religious bodies it is felt that he is not an astute politician and that the need of the republic is a politician able to deal with the revolution which many signs show to be impending.

In Western Australia Australians and people from other countries are applying for land in thousands and the demand is so great that Mr. Angwin, the Minister of Lands, says that it is necessary for Parliament to authorize railway extensions in several directions. Western Australia still has 38,000,000 acres available for selection and of these 25,000,000 acres are suitable for wheat growing.

Mr. "A man can never tell what a woman will do."
Her: "Neither can a woman."

Note and Comment

By R. B. D.

Someone said a long time ago that the voice of the people is the voice of God. There appears to be no doubt that the voice of Premier Mussolini, for the time being, is the voice of a vast majority of the people of Italy, but public opinion in general is very fickle, and Latin public opinion is extremely fickle. There is an oft-quoted phrase to the effect that the people of any country get the kind of government they deserve. Premier Mussolini has given the Italian people the very kind of government they want. He found Italy in a state bordering on anarchy. He found the people of Italy in such an unsettled state of mind that they did not appear to know what they wanted—except that they wanted a change of government of some kind. He gave them a change of government. He restored order and commanded the Italians to compose their minds and set their hands to work.

The kind of government Mussolini has set up would not be tolerated by any people that has been accustomed to another kind of government. The Mussolini idea of government would not suit the people of this country, nor would it suit the people of Great Britain or the people of the United States. Under the British system of government a strong opposition is considered as vital to the successful administration of public affairs as a strong government. Under the British constitutional system when a government ceases to function satisfactorily the government may be upset by the voice of the people and a new government established in its stead. Thus a change of government may be effected in a peaceful and orderly manner and without disturbing in the slightest degree the ordinary business of the country.

Under the system Mussolini has set up there can be no opposition to the government. It is not permissible for any person to express by sound of tongue or by stroke of pen any difference of opinion from the policy of the government. The elected opposition has been banished from the chamber that was created for the purpose of giving expression to the voice of all the people. The condition of public affairs in Italy therefore reminds us of that oft-quoted statement of that mysterious Englishman Junius, "the subject who is truly loyal to the chief magistrate will neither advise nor submit to arbitrary measures." The government of Mussolini is being maintained in power by purely arbitrary measures.

It may be possible for a certain system of government in any country to attain a certain degree of permanence. It is not possible for any government in any country to become permanent under any system. Mussolini for the time being speaks with the voice of the Italian people and administers the affairs of the Italian nation by consent of the Italian people, but while Mussolini may be endowed with some godlike attributes, he is mortal and is fallible. The time is therefore sure to come when a section of the people of Italy, possibly a majority of the people of Italy, will become weary of a system of government by arbitrary decree, and demand a change. And a change of government cannot be effected except by force and violence, for Mussolini has abolished constitutional government and established personal government. It is possible to give Mussolini unstinted credit for what he has accomplished on behalf of the people of Italy and at the same time to entertain some misgivings respecting the ultimate result to Italy of the means by which Mussolini has achieved his reforms.

That Prince of the Church, Rt. Hon. Arthur Foley Winnington-Graham, who officiated at the laying of the corner-stone of our new Anglican Cathedral in Victoria, may not be having as profitable a time during his tour of the United States as Her Majesty Queen Marie of Roumania, but he appears to be having an exceedingly pleasant time and some interesting experiences. His Lordship is not devoting all his time to making speeches and telling the people of the United States what a wonderful people they are, although he has paid them some very nice compliments. He believes in keeping himself in sound physical condition, health of body being a condition precedent to vigor of mind. Therefore he plays tennis whenever he can find a foe worthy of his lustily wielded racket. He has not yet found such an adversary—not at least of his own calling—in the United States. He met and soundly beat a brother Bishop in California, and therefore may be said to be carrying the clerical championship back with him to the Old Country. The laymen of the United States may be superior to the laymen of Great Britain in golf, tennis, and a few other athletic pastimes, but in at least one form of athletic sport the British Churchman can beat the American Churchmen "to a frazzle." Elated, but we trust not puffed up, by his success, the Bishop has challenged Miss Helen Wills, one of the most brilliant tennis players in the world, to a match before he leaves the country. Miss Wills, like Miss Barkis, says she is willing; and if His Lordship's gallantry does not impose a handicap on his natural athletic ability, he may return home crowned with another laurel.

Karolyi of Hungary May Settle in Canada

MONTREAL, Nov. 11.—Countess Karolyi, wife of Hungary's wartime Prime Minister, who is now in Montreal, will not visit or even attempt to enter the United States, she told newspapermen here yesterday. Countess Karolyi has left for Ottawa to interview Government authorities in connection with farms in Western Canada. It is believed that the Karolyis will settle in one of Canada's three Prairie Provinces.

"Thought you said you had ploughed that ten-acre field," said the first farmer.

"No; I only said I was thinking about ploughing it," answered the second farmer.

"Oh, I see; you've merely turned it over in your mind!"

FIFTY YEARS AGO TODAY

(From The Daily British Colonist of November 12, 1876)

For San Francisco—The mail steamer City of Panama sailed at 1 p.m. yesterday from Esquimalt for San Francisco with the mails, Wills, Fargo & Co's Express, and thirty-four cabin and fifty-two steerage passengers on board. Her freight consisted of slightly more than 1000 tons of coal, several packages of deer and seal skins, a few tons of general cargo, and one thousand tons of coal from Nanaimo.

Treasure—The following amounts were shipped by Wells, Fargo & Co's Express per steamer City of Panama—Bank of British North America, $75,444; Bank of British Columbia, $27,444; P. Garneau, $27,444.

Rock Bay House—One Kolp, late of the Adolph, will open Rock Bay House today, with the best of wines and liquors served at any time, and a first-rate free lunch.

The Rhyming Optimist

By Aline Michaelis

But seldom on life's sun-kissed heights men set their happy feet, but seldom unalloyed delights grant them draughts pure and sweet. Those perfect hours they know in dreams are all too rarely found, and as each shining moment gleams dark shadows ring it round. This is the way of life, we know; few flung hours it brings, so it is wiser as we go to joy in simple things. The rare elixir we would sip to make this world divine drips not unmixt within the cup; for most, a weaker wine. But still, if we would reckon all the shining sum of joy, would count each bliss, however small, take gold from each alloy, the total then would be as great as life, on sun-kissed heights, we for one hour thought Eden's gate crept in to taste delight.

General Pershing Talks Of Money in Elections

CHICAGO, Nov. 11.—The downfall of the United States will not be far off "if the time ever comes when public offices can be virtually bought and sold, either directly or indirectly," General John J. Pershing, wartime commander of the American Expeditionary Force, declared today before a meeting of Kiwanis Clubs here.

Have New Draperies Before Christmas

Towards Christmas you will be much too busy with other matters, so why not settle the question of new window draperies or furniture covers now?

A telephone call will bring some one from Weiler's to help you decide. He will bring sample material and will quote you prices to include the making, if you so desire.

Government Street Established 1862

OTTAWA, Nov. 11.—A man giving his name as John Sandusky was arrested this morning by the local police, suspected of being one of the bandits who held up a street car about midnight and escaped with two satchels containing $400 belonging to the Ottawa Electric Company. The bags with the money, police say, were found in his possession in an apartment on Hilda Street.
